IDS 116 & IDS 216: Leadership in Action General Education Seminar

This course supports the Paul Sullivan Institute's mission to cultivate future leaders by helping students recognize the impact that leaders have on the community and inspiring each to take action. It is rooted in the social change theory. A select cohort will experience year-long seminars and topics may include communications, social justice, volunteerism, philanthropy, non-profit organizations, networking, proper business presentation, and legislative impact. Students may also have an opportunity to volunteer in the community, work with professional mentors, and attend social, business and community events. This course supports the Written and Oral Communication, Personal and Professional Development, and Social Responsibility Institutional Student Learning Outcomes.

Successful candidates will be expected to enroll both semesters and will receive a letter grade for their completed work. Tuition for the course will be paid for by the Paul Sullivan foundation. Pre-requisites"
