Welcome to Middlesex Community College

Middlesex Community College has graduated more than 12,000 people since 1971, and during the past two decades, has grown from a single building in Bedford to a major, two-campus institution of higher education located in Lowell and Bedford.

Today, you have to take future prospects into consideration at every stage of your education. At Middlesex, we help you connect your goals and ambitions with the knowledge and skills you will need to achieve them. Middlesex offers 71 certificate and associate degree programs, many of them designed to equip you for the current and future job market.

The college is committed to educational opportunity and instructional excellence. Faculty, advisors, counselors and other professional staff are actively involved in support systems that give students the confidence and study skills needed for academic progress.

Associate in Science in Human Services

The Human Services associate in science degree program prepares students for a variety of positions in the diverse field of human services. A strong general education component provides essential broad-based knowledge of individuals and society. The development of effective communication and counseling skills is emphasized. The cornerstone of the program is a field placement students complete under the guidance of human service professionals. Students have the opportunity to explore career options working with children, elders, people with physical and mental disabilities, minority and refugee populations, homeless individuals and families, and other groups in need.
