Welcome to Middlesex Community College

Middlesex Community College has graduated more than 12,000 people since 1971, and during the past two decades, has grown from a single building in Bedford to a major, two-campus institution of higher education located in Lowell and Bedford.

Today, you have to take future prospects into consideration at every stage of your education. At Middlesex, we help you connect your goals and ambitions with the knowledge and skills you will need to achieve them. Middlesex offers 71 certificate and associate degree programs, many of them designed to equip you for the current and future job market.

The college is committed to educational opportunity and instructional excellence. Faculty, advisors, counselors and other professional staff are actively involved in support systems that give students the confidence and study skills needed for academic progress.

Direct Support in Human Services Certificate

The Direct Support in Human Services certificate program provides students with the knowledge and skills to effectively support individuals who may have disabilities or who seek assistance from human service agencies. The program offers courses to develop the basic skills that have been identified by the US Department of Labor as key to becoming a competent human service worker. Students are also prepared to enter the Associate Degree program in Human Services.
