General Advising Notes

- The entire program can be completed online
- Students are encouraged to begin taking courses aimed at completing their English and math requirements immediately upon entering the college. Also, students who place into reading courses on the college placement test should complete that requirement without delay.

Graduates are prepared for entry-level careers as assistants or trainees in a variety of departments in retail, wholesale, sales or manufacturing organizations. Some students' career pursuits may include department sales and management, buying, marketing, merchandising and styling. Students planning to continue their academics after degree completion should meet with a faculty or transfer advisor early in the program to review transfer options.
