Career and Transfer Outlook

In preparing for the 21st century workforce, it is strongly recommended that students learn entrepreneurial skills. Additionally, business students are looking for an applied program to help them launch a business while taking courses, not just learning business theories. Although there are entrepreneurship programs at four-year colleges and universities, this program is not specifically oriented toward transfer. Rather, it is a career program designed to support students already involved with or planning to start or manage a small business.
