

ASSOCIATION OF REGIONAL CENTERS FOR ASIAN STUDIES

2017/2018

ANNUAL REPORT

The Association of Regional Centers for Asian Studies

The Association of Regional Centers for Asian Studies (ARCAS) is composed of the 15 regional centers of the Asian Studies Development Program (ASDP), a joint initiative of the East-West Center and the University of Hawai'i. ARCAS is a nonprofit organization affiliated with ASDP. It works closely with ASDP on such initiatives as faculty development workshops and ASDP's annual conferences. However, ARCAS is not itself under the management of ASDP; it is run and financed cooperatively by its member institutions, namely, the regional centers of ASDP.

Mission Statement

The Association of Regional Centers for Asian Studies is committed to promoting the study of Asia and Asian cultures in undergraduate programs at colleges and universities throughout the United States.

The mission of this Association is to provide high quality programs for faculty, administrators, staff and students at member institutions and other institutions served by the regional centers. The purpose of these programs is to enhance teaching, learning and research in Asian studies.

To achieve this mission, the Association will seek to:

- continue to work closely with the East-West Center and the University of Hawai'i in planning and developing projects;
- develop effective modes of communication to link colleges and universities;
- develop collaborative strategies that colleges can use to share resources;
- provide advice and counsel to colleges and universities on implementing models for infusing Asian studies into the curriculum;
- develop grants to fund institutes, workshops, and seminars on Asia that are jointly sponsored and collaboratively coordinated;
- develop programs that can serve as models for a variety of different colleges and universities interested in Asian studies;
- develop nonacademic activities and outreach programs to reach the communities our colleges and universities serve.

The Association of Regional Centers for Asian Studies (ARCAS) works closely with the East-West Center and the University of Hawaii in planning and developing projects to promote Asian studies at 15 regional centers throughout the United States. This report is a record of some of the events, courses, presentations, publications, faculty and student travel, and international visitors sponsored by these centers. The breadth of the activities is very wide indeed. The events include cultural workshops, activities, film festivals, book clubs, grant-funded workshops, international festivals and conferences on various Asian cultural themes. These regional centers not only provide a resource to enhance teaching, learning and research in Asian studies on campuses, but also reach out into their surrounding communities to promote the study of Asia through such activities as the Greater Kansas City Japan Festival at Johnson County Community College with its more than 4,000 visitors, the training programs at the Honda International Center at Kapi'olani Community College, and the 2017 Asian Studies Development Program's Annual National Conference hosted by Portland Community College. The regional centers provide advice and counsel to colleges and universities on implementing models for infusing Asian studies into the curriculum, and this report lists a wide range of courses that have been developed and implemented in psychology, biology, art, history, religion, philosophy and more. In addition, it lists the many faculty who have published, presented, and taken on leadership roles, all in the promotion of Asian studies.

My colleagues and I all thankful to all the regional centers for sharing enthusiasm and information. In addition, thanks to Janette Jaspersen and Ilee Baugh for their work with Johnson County Community College's Marketing Communications staff in helping compile and publish this report.

Thank you all for the good work you are doing.

I. Campus Events

Black Hawk College

- “Found in Translation” Mixed media work by Peter Xiao. An exhibition in the ArtSpace Gallery on BHC campus.
- Fall 2017 Carter Symposium: “Asia and the West.” This was a two-day event. Six faculty members and a guest speaker presented over a wide range of topics.
- “Experiments in Ancient Chinese Science and Technology” Presentation by Dr. Matt Marone from Mercer University with a reception afterward.

College of DuPage

- Global Education Fair: Asia committee participated in the 2017–18 Annual Global Faire, held at COD, introducing Asia Committee and its activities throughout the year.
- Shanghai Nights: Several members of the Asia Committee gathered at the McAninch Arts Center at COD to enjoy a performance by the Shanghai Acrobats of the Peoples Republic of China.
- Book Club: The book club members of Asia Committee read Snow Flower and the Secret Fan by Lisa See. The book gave insights into the fascinating Chinese culture of the 19th Century.

Community College of Philadelphia

- Amardeep Singh, Associate Professor at Lehigh University, spoke on “Religion and Modernity in South Asian Literature.” This presentation was part of a Religious Studies Series organized by ASDP Alumnus David Prejsnar with support from the Center for South Asian Studies at the University of Pennsylvania.
- Viet Dinh, Assistant Professor, University of Delaware, read from his novel After Disasters (2016). This novel is set in India after the devastating earthquake of January 2001. The reading was followed by a Faculty Development Discussion of Viet Dinh’s short story, “Substitutes” set in Viet Nam. Both events were organized through the Writers and Poets Series and supported by the Office of Student Affairs and the Center for International Understanding.
- Dr. Beth Hessel, Executive Director of the Presbyterian Historical Society in Philadelphia, delivered the Diane C. Freedman Memorial Lecture in April. Her title was “World War II Incarceration of Japanese Americans: Intersections of Religious Freedom, Participatory Citizenship, and Democracy.”

Johnson County Community College

- Dr. Fanbin Zeng, visiting Fulbright scholar from China, gave two presentations at JCCC on the topic of social media and citizen participation. One presentation focused on the United States and the other on China. Dr. Zeng is an associate professor at the College of Journalism and Mass Communication at Jinan University. His visit to JCCC was made possible by the Fulbright Scholar Program’s Outreach Lecturing Fund.
- The faculty/staff peacebuilding book discussion group read and talked about the book A World of Three Zeros by Muhammad Yunus. Yunus was awarded a Nobel Peace Prize for his work with micro-finance in Bangladesh.

Middlesex Community College

- Melissa Ludtke, Sports Illustrated and Time Magazine journalist, workshopped her LUCE supported transmedia storytelling project “Touching Home in China: In Search of Missing Girlhoods.” The project offers resource-rich lesson plans about China. Teen adoptees, born in China, return to where they were abandoned as babies. Chinese girls who grew up in these towns teach the Americans about living in 21st century China.
- MCC AANAPISI faculty met for a book discussion on Imagined Communities by Benedict Anderson.
- An AANAPISI/ASDP Talk by Roger Ames on “Confucian China in a Changing Global Order” to students and faculty was followed by a workshop to ANNPISI Faculty on “China’s One Belt One Road Initiative.” A key question discussed in both the talk and workshop was what impact Confucianism — a philosophy that begins from the primacy of relationality — will have on world culture in the ensuing decades.

- Human Trafficking Presentations reached 240 students

Portland Community College

- The University of Oregon as a Title VI East Asia National Resource Center hosted a summer workshop developed by U of O in partnership with PCC’s Asian Studies faculty. The focus of the workshop was “New Political Realities in SE Asia.” Scholars from University of Oregon, Portland State University and Lewis and Clark led the various sessions.
- Asian Studies Talks and Social Hour: Martha Bailey and Joe Corrado presented, “Exploring ‘Islam in Asia’: Notes and Findings from 2017 NEH Institute.”
- Dr. Jeffrey Dippman, professor of philosophy and religious studies at Central Washington University, presented two lectures in March: “Dao & Zen, the Chinese Roots of Zen Buddhism” and “Qi’s Whiz: Daoist Cosmology.” In addition, Dr. Dippmann had individual conversations with four faculty, including, one instructor of International Studies, both instructors of Asian Philosophy, and the one Asian Religions instructor. He also had dinner with three faculty, covering English, one instructor of History, who teaches several Asian History classes, and the Asian Religions instructor.
- Asian Studies & China Studies Focus Award Celebration with guest speaker, Dr. Fanbin Zeng. He has been teaching and conducting research at the College of Journalism and Mass Communication of Jinan University since 2004, and was a Fulbright Visiting Scholar at the University of Wisconsin Madison, Department of Communication Arts in 2017-2018.

Trident Technical College

- Global Awareness Week 2018 was infused with Asian Studies during presentations on culture and innovation in the global aircraft industry, human trafficking, and geopolitical trade issues.

University of Central Arkansas

- UCA began “Tea & Talk” Series to highlight Asia-related research and experience on Campus. It hosted three events: “Confucian Ecology” with Dr. Brasovan; a film discussion on Fukushima with UCA Student Hanako Abe and Japanese instructor David House; and “Domestic Violence in Bangladesh” with Dr. Rifat Akhter.
- UCA participated in the CLA Fall Outreach Series on “Immigration and America” (with participation from Asia Studies faculty Dr. Akhter, Dr. Chen, Dr. Frank, and others).

University of Hawaii, Kapi'olani

- One week International Education Program with presentations by American diplomats, scholars as well as an international film program.
- International Festival Week with music, international food, cultural events, student and faculty presentations on various international topics
- KCC hosted students from more than 30 Japanese institutions for short term programs organized by the Paul S. Honda International Center

II. Community Outreach

College of DuPage

- Members of the Asia Committee attended an exhibit at the Alphawood Gallery in Chicago, which used photographs, art, objects and documents to provide greater insight into the lives of Japanese Americans incarcerated during WWII.

Community College of Philadelphia

- The International Festival Student Presentations included the following events:
 - “From Classical Indian Music to Indie Rock!”— student performances organized by Prof. Mak Khan, International Studies Program Coordinator.
 - “International Fashion and Talent Show” organized by Prof. Pairat Sethbhakdi and Prof. Mak Khan.
 - “Japanese Fishermen’s Dance” student group led by Akiko Mori, instructor of Japanese.
 - “Taste of the World” event prepared by Culinary Arts and Hospitality Program, which attracted over 600 students and staff.

Johnson County Community College

- More than 4,000 people enjoyed Japanese food, cultural performances, workshops, displays and the ever-popular anime at the annual Greater Kansas City Japan Festival held on JCCC’s campus.

Middlesex Community College

- AANAPISI Faculty Fellows and Ambassadors visited a Lowell Cambodian Temple where Fulbright and AANAPISI participant Kerriane Gamache gave a talk on Buddhism and local monks discussed how the temple plays a central role in the local Cambodian community.
- The WGBH Ground Truth Project, “The New American Songbook: Performance of Cambodia Music” event at MCC asked how the Cambodian immigrant experience defines itself through musical culture and how music can help us all understand the lives of today’s immigrants. The 30-minute podcast follows a Cambodian man who is saved from genocide through music and a Cambodian-American boy who dreams of being a traditional Cambodian dancer. The podcast was included in the multimedia presentation and music and dance performance at MCC (<http://thegroundtruthproject.org/projects/new-american-songbook/>).
- The MCC-ASDP and AANAPISI Fall 2017 Conference on SE Asia was held at MCC and Bridgewater State University, with presenters Eric Tagliacozzo, Jonathan Padwe, Ardeth Thawngnhmung, and Anne Hansen. In this workshop, presenters encouraged participants to consider how networks of political, economic and religious exchange shape cultural understandings and identities, as well as their natural environments. The workshop enabled participants to build curricular bridges between a range of humanities and social science disciplines and current conditions both in Cambodia and in the experiences of Cambodian-American communities that directly affect many MCC students. The workshop also included two curriculum discussion sessions that focused on how to infuse Southeast Asian studies into the undergraduate learning experience.

THE ART OF RESISTANCE
An Illustrated Talk by Shelley Hawks
Tues, Feb. 6, 12:00-1:00 Lowell Fed Bldg Assembly Room

Huang Yongyu, Eternal Window, 1967. After being jailed, Huang was moved to a tiny shed near Beijing with no sunlight. In defiance, he painted this brightly colored window.

MCC Faculty Shelley Hawks tells the story of Chinese painters who refused to let their art become propaganda during China's Cultural Revolution (1966-1976). Based on years of original research, she reveals for the first time how seven ink painters defended their artistic ideals despite physical and psychological persecution. The talk is drawn from her book, The Art of Resistance: Painting by Candlelight in Mao's China, a gorgeously illustrated work that offers a new look at an era still little known in China. It is about art and history, but ultimately it is about undaunted individuals who refused to surrender their inner freedom.

SHELLEY DRAKE HAWKS is a writer and historian in Concord, MA who teaches art history at Middlesex Community College. She has also taught at Mount Holyoke College, Boston University, UMASS-Boston, and Rhode Island School of Design. She has a masters in Asia regional studies from Harvard and a doctorate in history from Brown.

"Written with grace and keen insight, this work...addresses both art and history compellingly in a way that enriches both disciplines."
—Vera Schwarz, Colors of Veracity: A Quest for Truth in China and Beyond
